Lynn,

We hooked up our new GO5 units this week. I watched several of the tutorials to learn how to customize my system. Thanks to this system, we have already caught one of our staff lying about where she was during the day. (She doesn't know we installed the units.)

Also, one of the vans went in the shop for repairs. After my driver picked up the van he called me and told me it wasn't running right and he was taking it back to the shop. I simply went to "Vehicles and Devices" then "Engine Data" and was able to call the shop and tell them the van was misfiring on #1,4,& 5 cylinders. I even faxed them a copy of the data before he got there.

Today I hovered over another van and found it had a misfire today. It's probably time for some new sparkplugs.

So far, I'm having a blast figuring out everything I can do with this system!

Thanks,
